

Outcomes-based Job Descriptions and Performance Evaluations

Outcomes-based job descriptions can be a key to an effective, well-managed organization. They offer staff clear expectations, allowing them to focus on the talents and skills required to meet the outcomes. The outcomes are aligned with core program values and purpose. They can also be the inspiration for staff to practice critical thinking skills and rise to a new level.