

Engaging Fathers Learning Activity: Children's Interactions With Fathers and Mothers

Objective

The purpose of this activity is to identify the ways and differences in how fathers and mothers interact with their young children.

Instructions

In this activity, you will think broadly about the ways you have seen mothers and fathers interact with their children.

Think about the mothers and fathers you work within your program. In what ways are mother-child and father-child interactions the same? In what ways do fathers and mothers interact differently with their children? You may also draw on your own experiences as a child or a parent.

Use the table below to organize your thoughts.
