Teacher: Know what that's called?

Boy: What called?

Teacher: Let's see if it tells us what it's called. It says, "A cobra snake." "A cobra is a snake with sharp, poisonous teeth called fangs. When it bites another animal, it injects the poison through its fangs. An African spitting cobra can even spit poison at an enemy."

Boy: And shoot lasers.

Teacher: Yeah. Pchew. Ugh! That would be super scary.

Boy: Yeah.

Teacher: Yeah. Thanks for cleaning that up.

Boy: T. rex eat snakes.

Teacher: T. rex eats snakes?
